Living Room Conversations

Lucas Martinez, Emily Bernstein and Uzi Baram led the ADL program hosted by Karen & Paul Kade

Our Living Room Conversations and potluck dinners have been very popular programs. LRCs are provided for Alliance members and are held in members' homes and. We make an effort to keep our groups intimate enough to encourage interactions among our speakers and members. Kudos to Uzi Baram, Alliance Program Chair, for organizing these events and Karen Kade, Member-at-Large, for handling the potluck arrangements. At the December Living Room Conversation, representatives from the Florida Anti-Defamation League gave an update on antisemitism in Florida as well as national trends.

"Antisemitic incidents across the state mark a disturbing trend. While we welcome any decrease in the overall number of incidents, the significant rise in Israel-related antisemitic activity highlights the formidable challenges faced by the Jewish community."

StopAntisemitism's 2025 Campus Antisemitism Report

One of our Alliance members shares this annual report about antisemitism on U.S. college and university campuses. "More than 140 campuses saw orchestrated protest actions, many supported by outside organizations with clear political agendas, synchronized messaging, and unified demands. These demonstrations have nothing to do with "free speech," they are about actions: encampments, mob intimidation, property."

Not that most of the liberal Ivy colleges that promote DEI, got an F rating. Most of the schools that earned an A rating were in the South. Read the full report here:

Netflix Releases an Antisemitic Film

Iron Lion Zion is an activist group combating BDS and antisemitism. They are sharing information about an attempt to revive the horrendous blood libel that has harmed Jews for centuries. In the Jordanian film, Farha IDF soldiers are seen murdering a Palestinian family during the War of Independence, will be released on Netflix in December. The film is set in 1948 during the Palestine Mandate and tells a story of teenage Palestinian girl who witnesses IDF attacks in her village. The production claims to be "inspired by true events", however this is a lie.

After you read this this commentary, consider signing your name, and sharing this with as many people as you can.

Sarasota's School Board needs History Lesson

Norman Olshansky, Guest columnist

Sarasota Herald-Tribune, Dec. 28, 2025

- The Sarasota County School Board has implemented a new policy to begin its meetings with a prayer.
- The policy states there will be no guidelines or limitations on the content of the invocation.
- The article's author questions the policy's motivation and its potential conflict with the separation of church and state.
- Concerns are raised about the possibility of proselytizing or offensive language during the invocations.

A new Sarasota County School Board policy calls for a prayer at the start of board meetings.

The policy's opening paragraph states that the purpose of the invocation is "to assist Board Members in setting their minds to a higher purpose and to ease their task of governing the school district."

The policy also states that "no guidelines or limitations shall be issued regarding the invocation's content..."

In addition, it states that neither the board nor its employees will interrupt the invocation or dismiss the Speaker based on the content of the invocation

What if the speaker goes into a racist, Islamophobic, anti-Catholic or antisemitic rant?

What if the speaker starts to proselytize to make believers who are not of their faith?

Are prayers that are particular to one religious group appropriate for a diverse audience?

Private and personal prayer is the right of everyone under the First Amendment.

However, bringing prayer into public meetings, which are attended or viewed by people of many faiths, can be problematic, especially when they are not ecumenical in nature.

The very first invocation under the Sarasota County School Board's new policy was a prayer that only specific denominations of Christianity would find appropriate.

We would ask this: What is the real motivation behind this new policy?

Members of the Sarasota County School Board have been promoting efforts to bring their own faith into the schools in various ways.

What will be next?

Will Bibles be distributed?

Will prayers be conducted at the beginning of classes?

Will clergy chaplains that the state has authorized be used as counselors in the schools?

Will public support be given to parochial schools?

Our Bill of Rights, which is part of the U.S. Constitution, starts with the First Amendment.

Our Founding Fathers made it clear that there should be a separation of church and state.

Indeed, Thomas Jefferson coined the phrase "separation of Church and State."

James Madison went further and warned that "government involvement with religion could lead to the corruption of religion, threatening of liberty, coercion and favoritism.

Maybe the Sarasota County School Board needs to go back to school and take a civics history lesson.

ooooo
